"My son has attended three camps and he absolutely loves it! It's a mixture of learning and fun in a nurturing environment. It's a hidden gem in the heart of Kensington. We can't wait for the next one "
N., mum of one

A creative method (of over 35 years)

The method behind the camps is Montessori-inspired, which means children, although directed by adults, are encouraged to work independently and creatively. Adults show them how to make an item (such as a costume, a delicious treat, a show, a game) and the children decide what it will look, taste or feel like. There are different age groups and all activities are designed to suit different skills. For some projects, the older children act as helpers for the younger ones (little ones tend to learn faster from older peers, and the older ones have the best brought out in them by providing the help).
